

STACK ECONOMICS

Twelve Tools Became Three Agents

A founder cut loaded GTM spend from about $200K a year to about $60K by deleting the job of being human glue.

READ ON —

THE STACK CUT

From Twelve Tools To Four Core Ones

Eight point tools got sunset. Enrichment, sequencing, and hygiene folded into agents.

EXHIBIT 02

VERYDIAN

8 SUNSET

4 KEPT

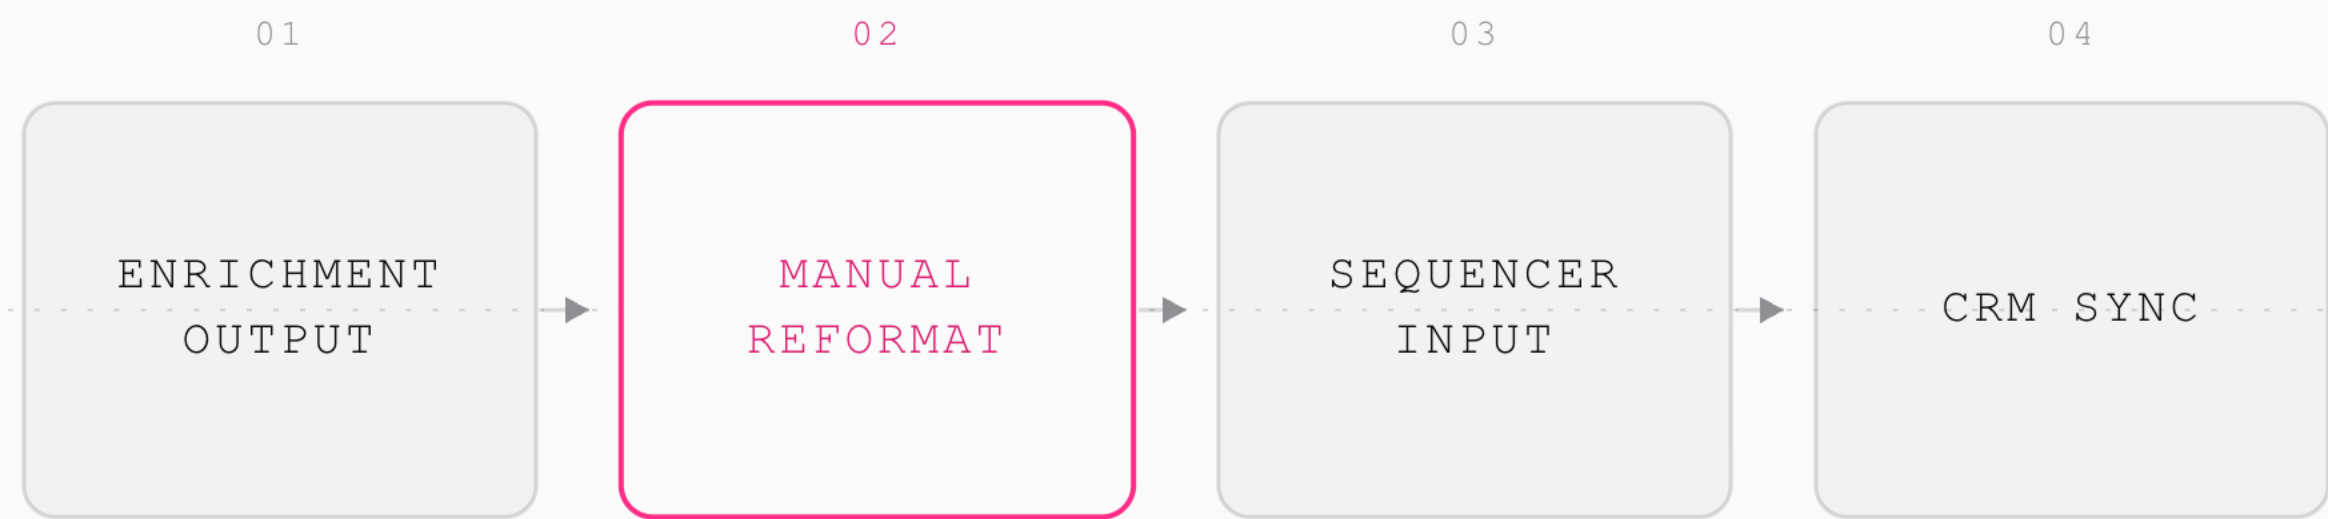

THE REAL JOB

The Ops Hire Was A Translation Layer

Enrichment output, sequencer input, and CRM sync never spoke the same format.

EXHIBIT 03

VERYDIAN

THE ACTUAL MATH

Two Hundred K Versus Sixty K

Same pipeline, same output, under a third of the cost once integration stopped needing a human.

EXHIBIT 04

VERYDIAN

OLD STACK

— 200K PER YEAR

— ONE OPS HIRE

VS

NEW STACK

● 60K PER YEAR

● THREE AGENTS

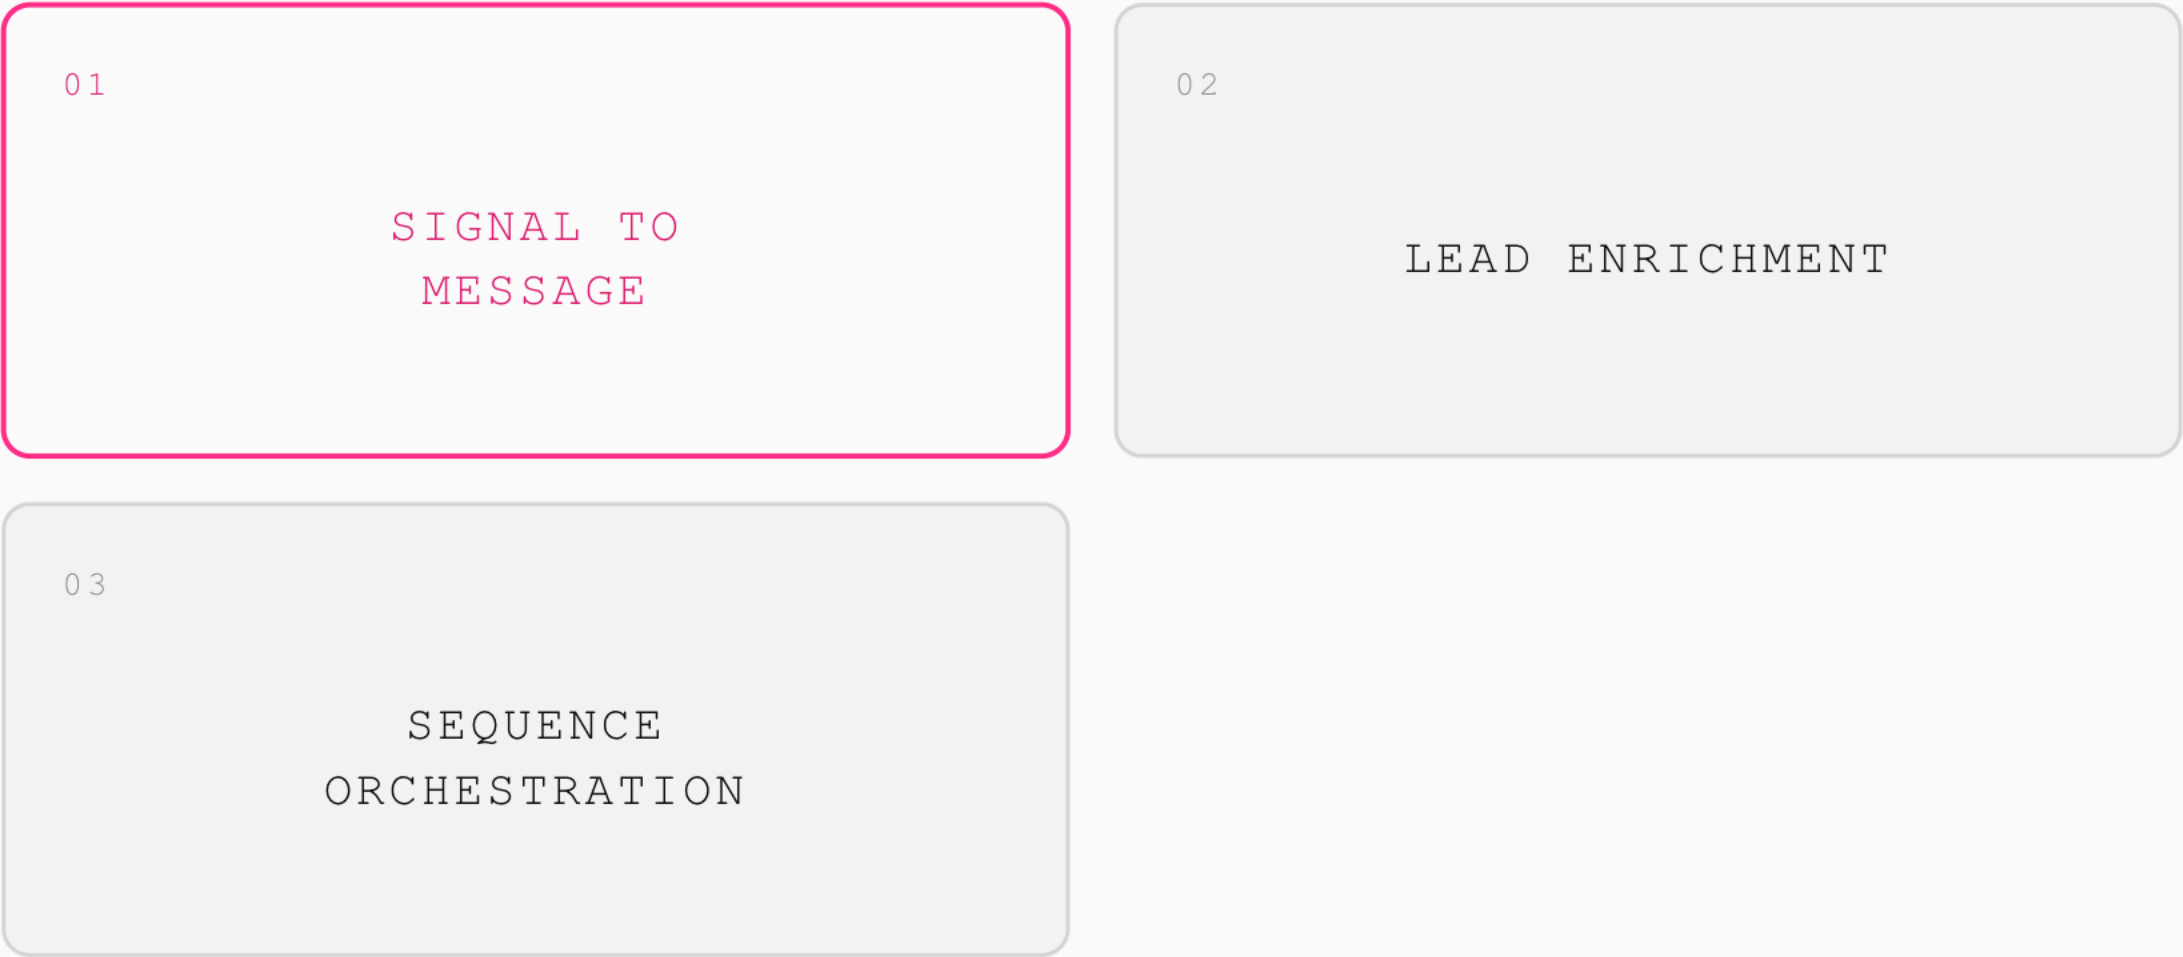

THE NEW ROSTER

Three Agents, Three Jobs

Signal to message, lead enrichment, and sequence orchestration replaced the glue work.

EXHIBIT 05

VERYDIAN

Stop Paying Someone To Translate Between Tools

If your ops hire moves data more than they make decisions, fix the integration.

AUDIT YOUR STACK