

MULTI-AGENT PIPELINE

I've Been The Coordinator This Whole Time

Claude Code just automated the one job I do by hand every week.

My Pipeline Runs On Four Manual Handoffs

Researcher to writer to editor to notion-manager. I carry every decision between them myself.

The New Coordinator Sits In The Middle

One goal gets scoped, split across threads, and assembled back into a single result.

What It Actually Removes

The mechanical half of coordination, not the judgment half. That distinction matters more than the feature list.

What's Automated, What's Still Mine

It merges conflicts and carries context. It doesn't know which hook is worth four agents' time.

Testing It On Two Stages First

Research and writing next week. The rest waits until I trust it.
