OUTCOME PRICING

Fin bills $0.99 for a no, $9.99 for a yes

Both are billable outcomes on Intercom's pricing page, listed ten times apart. My view: pay per outcome and the definition of the outcome is the product.

THE PRICE LADDER

02/06

Fin lists five billable outcomes, one priced ten times higher

Resolution, procedure handoff, disqualification and self-serve routing are listed at 0.99 USD each. Qualification is listed at 9.99 USD. One outcome is billed per conversation.

THREE METERS

03/06

Action, conversation, outcome: three meters for one idea

Agentforce's page sells Flex Credits at 500 USD per 100k and lists a 2 USD per-conversation price. Fin bills one outcome per conversation. These are billing units, not a price comparison.

WHO DEFINES YES

04/06

Who writes the criteria decides how often yes is billed

Fin's page: a qualification is when it matches a prospect to criteria you defined and routes them. The yes is whatever you wrote down, and the bill follows it.

MY VIEW

05/06

My audit: read the yeses and the nos, weekly

My opinion, not data. The dashboard count tells you the definition fired. A weekly sample of both outcomes tells you whether each was a real opportunity.

Read the nos, not just the yeses

Prices are from the live pages on November 8 and will change.
